

WILDLIFE BIOLOGY IN PRACTICE

NEW

open-access journal in the area of wildlife
research

*We kindly invite all researchers to submit new papers
to WBP.*

The Wildlife Biology in Practice (WBP) publishes research papers, review papers, discussion papers, methodological papers and short communications in all fields of wildlife biology. Clear relevance to practical aspects of wildlife research is encouraged. WBP publishes 1 volume per year with 2 issues.

WBP guarantees immediate worldwide visibility. It comprises a large number of acknowledged experts for selecting, reviewing and quality-improving manuscripts. WBP is an online journal free of charge, with a print and CD–rom version paid by subscribers (price corresponds to printing and mailing costs).

Authors who publish research articles in WBP retain copyright over their work. This secures their “moral right” to safeguard the integrity of their work and to have the full work referenced whenever totally or partially reproduced. By publishing their research in WBP, authors agree to allow free and unrestricted non-commercial use of the work by others.
